SYNOPSIS

The popular horse magazine Cutie Mc Horsie has launched a contest: send in your photo and become the new poster pony! Cleo immediately sees a chance to finally become famous, and Zorro and Sally are ready to back her up. However, Eldorado - Buckstead Farm's arrogant stallion - scoffs at her chances of winning. Provoked, Cleo challenges him: if her picture appears in Cutie Mc Horsie, she gets Eldorado's finest trophy. And if she doesn't, Eldorado gets... Zorro.

That is the final straw for Sally and Zorro, and Cleo is forced to realize that true friends aren't something you can own, win, or wager.

Ane Bjørn

Will's Sun

Villes sol

A poetic visual narrative about longing and memory, swirling kisses and dancing clouds, and about all the vast and impossible things that can only be expressed with a brushstroke.

Through her evocative illustrations, Ane Bjørn gives form to everything that children (and adults) sometimes find challenging to express with words: dreams, fears, sorrow, anger and imagination.

SYNOPSIS

Will wants to draw his father. But it is hard to draw someone you cannot really remember, and when Will tries, the result is just angry, black scribbles. But then he meets his neighbor, a painter, and begins to understand that pictures can look a thousand different ways and express a thousand different things. They can mirror the world we see or express the world we carry inside us, and neither is more "right" than the other.

Tallulah plans this as a book that can be used in pre-school and middle-grade, because of the many themes contained in the artwork, but not expressed with words.

Michela Elk

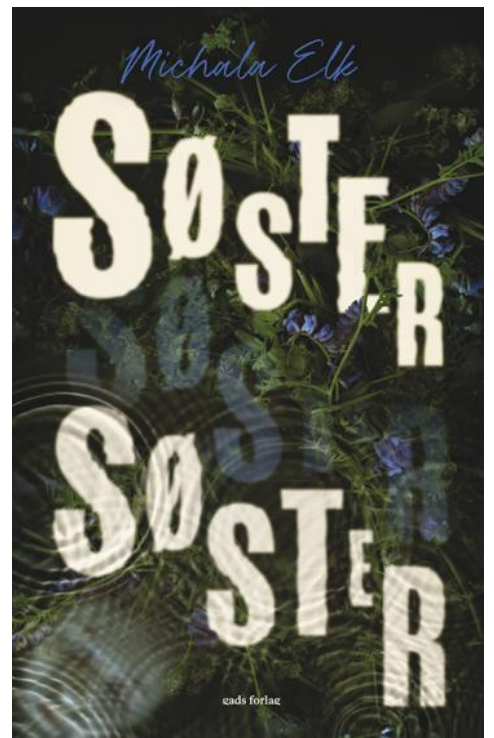

Sister Sister

Søster Søster

Sister, Sister is a haunting coming-of-age mystery about sisterhood, grief, trauma and the dangerous things that happen when a family mistakes silence for protection. It is a story about what we bury, what comes back, and the courage it takes to finally face the truth together.

Michela Elk (b. 1991) is a graduate from the Manuscript School for Children's Fiction in 2023. She is drawn towards telling those stories that become alive in the meeting between darkness, hope and everyday magic.

SYNOPSIS

When 14-year-old Sigrid's family puts their house up for sale following her older sister Joanna's breakdown, something in the home begins to subtly shift. At night, there is a dripping sound in the basement. Voices whisper through the walls. Photo albums move on their own. At the same time, the sensation grows that no one is telling the truth about the prom where Joanna changed.

As the summer heat settles heavily over the neighborhood, Sigrid tries to make sense of what is happening around her.

Sister, Sister is a visceral and unsettling psychological horror story about trauma, shame, sisterhood, silence, and the things families do to keep the darkness at bay.

REVIEWS

"A well-written and intense young adult novel about the supernatural, sibling bonds, and the shadows of the past. A powerful and unsettling psychological horror story dealing with trauma and the darkness lurking beneath the surface. Michaela Elk masterfully evokes - through vivid, sensory imagery - the unspoken and painful dynamics between people." – (Library review (Lektørdtalelse))

Summer Beast

Sommerbæst

Thomas Hjorthaab is known and loved for his artwork in Denmark and beyond. This is his first novel, aimed at 12+

Thomas Hjorthaab is a well-known Danish children's book illustrator whose art style is known to be funny, punk and bursting with emotion.

SYNOPSIS

Milan is off to spend the summer with his eccentric uncle, who lives in an old farm house and makes a living as a taxidermist. The air smells of dust, animal hides, and forgotten secrets - and the barn is filled with foxes, badgers, and owls frozen in stiff poses. But something is different this summer. Milan has been rejected by the art school he applied to because his drawings are too stiff and lack life.

However, when Milan encounters a mysterious beast, his drawings begin to change, and he is awakened by a force he does not understand. A black whirlwind of shadow creatures takes shape - and Milan must choose whether to tame the wildness... or become a part of it.

REVIEWS

"An intense, richly descriptive, and magical horror story in which the real blends with the unreal, creating a creeping sense of dread that intensifies as you read. The book's slow pace and evocative language - which almost makes the smells of Anton's barn seep right out of the pages - combine with Milan's illustrations (depicting the scenes before and after the encounter with the beast) to heighten the sense of unease (...)" – (Library Review (Lektørdtalelse))

Viola does not want to

Viola vil ikke

The first book in a series, this is a highly relatable story about divorce seen through a child's eyes, combining emotional insight, warmth and gentle humour with a strong theme of finding your voice and being heard.

Trine Bundsgaard (b. 1971) works full-time as an author and has published more than 30 books for children and young people.

Rasmus Meisler is an award-winning and widely celebrated illustrator, based in Copenhagen.

SYNOPSIS

Viola's parents are divorced, and now Viola is supposed to live in two places. But she doesn't want to. Dad's new apartment isn't very cozy, and it's a long way from the old house where Mum still lives.

Dad wants to make things nice, preferably with Viola's help, but it's hard for her to make an effort because then it feels as though it really is the end of the possibility that Mum and Dad might move back in together.

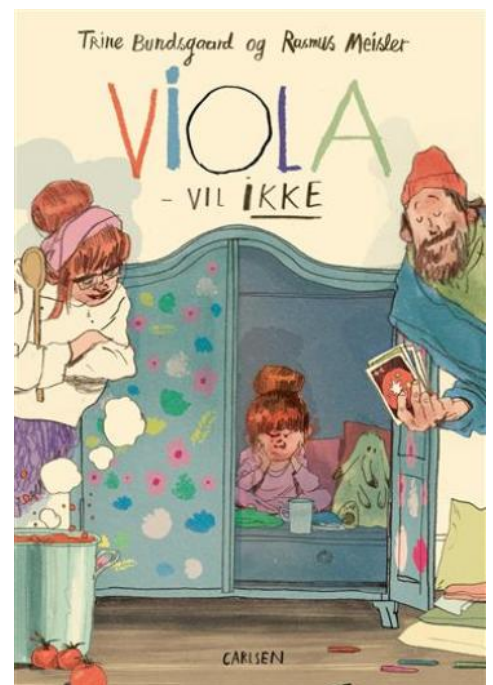

But when Viola meets Iris, something happens. Iris has lots of ideas about what Viola can do with her new room, and when Dad also starts listening to Viola's ideas, the room slowly begins to become Viola's. Truly hers.

The books about Viola are about being caught in the middle of a divorce, but also about finding your voice and being heard — even when you don't always get your way.

The stories are written with great insight, warmth and realism, always at a child's level, so that readers can immediately put themselves in Viola's shoes.

The books are fully illustrated in colour by Rasmus Meisler.

Luckily, Tiny Toot is always ready to help! But Gato seems to have chosen a rather unfortunate spot — right underneath the cow's tail ...

Silja Aldudóttir

Monster

Ódjór

A scary, dark and thought-provoking reading for tweens. It is published in Estonia, Norway and Sweden and was listed as one of the best children's books in Estonia in 2024.

Silja Aldudóttir (1992) is a Faroese writer and editor.

SYNOPSIS

Something strange is happening in town. There are constant earthquakes and the streets are flooded so that people have to wade around in the water and several houses have had their basements destroyed. In addition, the rats have started coming out of the sewers and roam around in the streets.

13-year-old Asta is having a hard time at school, she has no friends and Úni, who used to be her best friend, now only hangs out with the coolest gang in the class. To escape everything, Asta usually goes to the large plantation just outside town. One day she sees a girl in a yellow raincoat who observes her. It turns out to be Lóa, who has just moved to town. They become friends and life feels better. But then one day Asta dips her head under the surface of the water in the river and what she sees there changes everything. She stares into a pair of glowing eyes that sit in a grotesquely large face. A beast that lives in the water-filled tunnels under the city.

With 14 illustrations by Bárður Dal Christiansen.

REVIEWS

"Silja Aldudóttir excels time and time again to write scenes that make the reader go: Oh no, what is Asta doing now? Or: What will happen now? What sort of monster has she discovered this time? When one challenge is settled, the next knocks on the door, and the questions of friendship and the monster's future are constantly shaking the ground (...) it can be read by all age groups, because there is a depth in it, an ecocriticality and existential questions giving the reader something to think about and hopefully take to heart." – Helle Thede Johansen (nlh.fo)

"With a sharp pen and inspiration from her hometown she has created a realistic world with a sinister atmosphere: The ground is shaking, rats are everywhere, basements are flooded, sewers are full to the brim and a gigantic creature is demanding resurrection." – Helena Kannuberg (Dimmalætting)

Sausage does not want to go to bed

Pølse vil ikke i seng

There are many things that Sausage doesn't want, and Dad actually can't really figure it all out. But Sausage can! A charming, colourful series for anyone who likes a fun take on everyday family life. This is the sixth book in the series.

Oliver Zahle has written a charming picture book series about a little hard-nosed girl and her quirky Dad that is bound to make both parent and child laugh.

Siri Melchior has already proved that her illustration style travels, her books having been published in Germany and Spain.

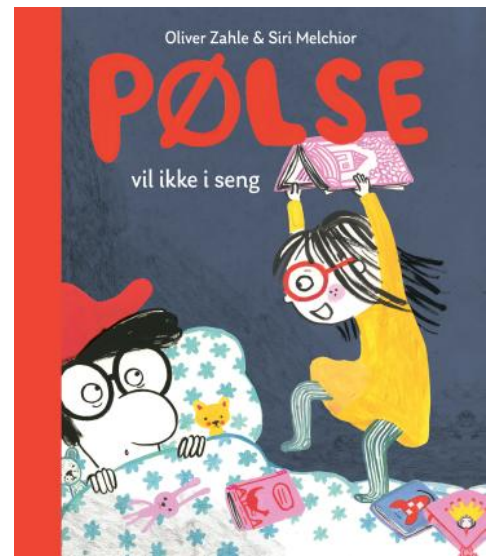

SYNOPSIS

This is Sausage. Or rather, that isn't her name at all. It's just what her dad calls her because he thinks she's delicious. A bit like a sausage in a hot dog with ketchup and crispy onions. Dad often pretends he's going to eat her up. And then Pølse laughs, because it tickles.

It's time for Sausage to go to bed, but she doesn't want to. After all, Dad isn't going to bed, so why should she? She'd much rather hang out and watch TV like the grown-ups.

But if Sausage wants to do what the grown-ups do, Dad thinks she should go to "grown-up school" and learn how to load the dishwasher, put kids to bed, and do the laundry.

This is a series for anyone who enjoys a fun take on everyday life in families with children.

What do you do? Horror Escape Room

Hvad gør du? Gyser Escape Room

Horror Escape Room is the fifth book in the What Do You Do? series - richly illustrated, wacky stories where the reader decides the action. Each story contains many different paths - and with 29 different endings, it will be extra fun to read the book again and again and again...

Emil Landgreen is a Danish illustrator, drummer and author, based in Copenhagen.

SYNOPSIS

You're going to a horror escape room with the class.

Unfortunately, everyone has gotten sick after eating teacher Paul's homemade oat cakes, so now you have to do it all by yourself.

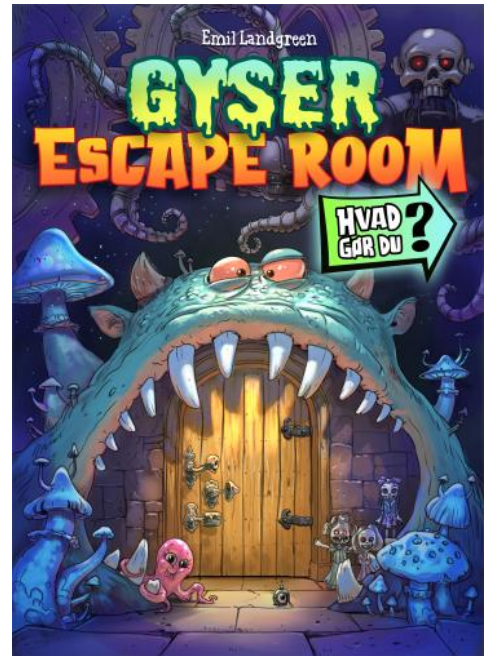

Luckily, you're really smart and good at solving puzzles. At least if you say so yourself.

But this escape room is not quite normal. In the usual crazy "What do you do?" style, you have to make choices along the way and find your way through the story, which has 29 different endings.

Along the way, you'll encounter creepy horror dolls, dangerous robots, monsters and a very large frog who loves fruit compote.

One wrong choice can make everything go completely wrong.

Good luck. You'll need it.
