Jacinta Madsen

The Magical Wing Chair

Den magiske lænestol

In this very special picture book Jacinta Madsen creates an embracing and imaginative space in which children can safely talk about the sensations they experience when they at a very young age begin to explore their own body.

Jacinta Madsen (b. 1982) is a journalist with bachelor degree in Philosophy and a speciality in children's and youth television. She has hosted and produced innumerable programs on the Danish public TV channel, DR, specifically for their hugely popular children's channel, Ramasjang.

SYNOPSIS

Oda's wing chair is magical. When she sits on it, she flies on a warm wind. Rub, rub, rub - then magic arrives.

One day when Oda is playing with her wing chair, her mum walks by and asks what she is doing. Oda knows that when she puts one leg in front of the other, she is walking, but she has no words for what she is doing with the wing chair. She only knows that it feels like soap bubbles and butterflies down below. Luckily, mum knows the word and helps Oda to find a language for the magic of the body.

Gutkind have created some lovely extra material for the book which can be accessed here.

REVIEWS

"Many parents will no doubt recognise the insecurity when it comes to children's exploration of their body and gender and not least the awkward dialogue about it. Jacinta Madsen's The Magic Wing Chair is one of those books that might help - and perhaps even prevent - the awkward conversation from happening. Jacinta Madsen passes no judgment, but conveys smiles, explanation and unity ... suitable for the youngest school children. Like other fiction, it can provide a more personal perspective without being intimidating...The book can also be included in the kindergarten book shelf or be read at home - if you dare." – (Weekendavisen)

"The accomplishment of The Magical Wing Chair is the crayon-analogue, playful picture universe with butterflies and dandelion seeds in torn-off china paper, which is ultra soft at the edges. The text, which describes 5-year-old Oda's own imaginative universe, is curious and when the mum steps in in the middle of her rubbing game on the armrest of the magical wing chair and asks "What are you doing?", a prejudice-free dialogue about masturbation begins ... emphatic ... rather supreme." – (Politiken - 4 hearts)

Free Frog

Fri Frø

Free Frog is a fun and poetic picture book about finding your own croak and discovering what you can – and cannot – do when you are a sensitive frog with dreams of flying.

Rebecca Bach-Lauritsen (b. 1976) is an award-winning Danish author and radio journalist, whose previous books were translated into several languages.

Charlotte Pardi (b. 1971) has won the Danish Cultural Ministry's Illustrator Prize on several occasions and is loved for her gentle appealing artwork.

SYNOPSIS

Frog lives in the bog. Frog's friends jump, croak and swim. But Frog thinks the water is too wet. Frog prefers to fly. How difficult can it be?

The Danish publisher, Gutkind, have once more created some great extra material – take a look here.

REVIEWS

"It is a lovely, positive story about being content with what you can do and the abilities you have. The artwork carries the humour, playfulness and lightness in the story, which the text effectively and succinctly pins down." – (Danish Library Centre (Dansk Bibliotekscenter))

"There is a symbiosis between the happy, colourful and humouristic illustrations and the very sparse text. It bears witness to a close collaboration. The text can be read in the artwork, the text is part of the artwork, just as the artwork tells as story that supports the text significantly. What a wonderful experience." – Eiler Jensen (Children & Books (Børn og bøger))

All the monkeys are busy enjoying themselves - doing exactly what they prefer to do. But Monkey cannot figure out what he should do.

Because what does he actually feel like doing?

REVIEWS

"A sweet picture book with lovely colour artwork in Jørgen Stamp's recognisable style. The book has a meta-layer, as the reader discovers on the last page that it is the last monkey who is the author of the book. It is quite a funny idea which will surprise the smaller children." – (Library review (Lektørdtalelse))

Frank Here and There and Everywhere

Frank mig her

What happens when Dad suddenly gets a new partner? That this new partner also happens to be a man is not the main topic of the book. The focus is more on accepting new relations in the family.

Line-Maria Lång (b. 1982) is a Danish-Swedish author of both adult- and children's books.

Karen Vad Bruun (b. 1977) has worked with books in many different roles: as author, translator, publisher and rights seller.

Cato Thau-Jensen (b. 1966) is a Danish illustrator, known for his wild and colourful illustrations in humorous children's books.

SYNOPSIS

“Dad says that he is a proper “Frankophile”. He likes everything and anything to do with Frank”. That includes French waffles, franked mail and Frankenstein’s monster. And one day it also turns out that it includes a man called Frank, who moves in with father and son in their flat.

It is not easy to make space in the family for a new surprise member. Especially not Frank, who takes up way too much space. It is Frank here and there and everywhere.

A lovely picture book where the focus is less on diversity and more on accepting new family constellations and giving in to something that is actually rather nice – a new friend, whose large shoes can contain a lot of Lego (and water)...

A poetic and colourful picture book full of details that celebrates an embracing community with room for everyone.

Cecilie Eken is an award-winning author who writes with beauty and imagination in a language that encompasses both the every day and the poetical. Her works tackle the big themes of life: parents and children, friendship, love, and finding our place in the world and a sense of connectedness. She has been nominated for the prestigious Astrid Lindgren Memorial Award in 2023, 2024 and 2025.

Maren Tjelta Thu (b. 1997) is a talented Norwegian illustrator, known for her colourful and whimsical seek-and-find pictures.

SYNOPSIS

Omnia's house has room for everyone. In fact, the house offers everything a child could possibly want: community, fun, a place where you can use your imagination and play and learn.

Omnia greets all the different children who come knocking on her door. Among them is Karl, who is anxious; Ida, who longs for a friend; Aisha, who is a refugee. Each and every one of them have special qualities and backgrounds, and every one of them is met with a "welcome here".

The book is beautifully illustrated by Norwegian artist, Maren Tjelta Thu, who unfolds the colorful, playful universe that you can emerge yourself in.

REVIEWS

"Maren Tjelta Thu's illustrations are colourful and charming with a wide appeal because of the similarity to popular animation movies. The book is published in a big and exclusive format and the spreads are seek-and-find-like, allowing the readers to explore the corners of the house and the abundance of details...

Omnia's house is light and airy in its visual expression, but you should not underestimate the underlying seriousness, which addresses society's approach to people with bumps on "the path of life" and the lack of "open hearts" in communities... The author has something to say about modern childhood, efficiency, integration and inclusion, and she reminds the reader about the values that cannot be described through curricula and competency goals." – Anna Skyggebjerg (Weekendavisen)

Ringo is not allowed to be a scaredy pants

Ringo må ikke være en bangebuks

Book three in the funny series about Ringo and his slightly hypocritical dad. Ringo is not allowed to be a scaredy pants! But is it really Ringo's dad who is scared?

SYNOPSIS

Ringo and his dad are at the playground. Ringo is busy with a lot of exciting stuff, but when he wants to climb into the highest climbing tower, it might be a bit too much excitement. In any case, Ringo is not quite sure if he dares to climb up there. But of course Ring's dad is convinced that he MUST. You shouldn't be a scaredy cat.

But is it perhaps Ringo's dad who is a bit scared?

In a simple and funny illustration style, Martin Sommer tells a story that all parents will recognise (if we are COMPLETELY honest) and that children will love to read. All told in a loving tone.

Maria Mac Dalland is an animation director with a number of animated films and documentaries under her belt.

SYNOPSIS

In this fourth book, Tiny Toot, Gato and Nisse are once again off in Nisse's ecolicopter. They land in the jungle where they meet an elephant baby, bathing in the muddy pond with its mum. The baby elephant finds it difficult to stand still, so Tiny Toot has to help...

Come on a journey with Tiny Toot, Gato and Nisse! Tiny Toot is a small girl who lives together with her brother, mum and dad, and her cat, Gato. In Tiny Toot's room, there is a mouse hole in the wall and her small friend, Nisse, lives in there. Nisse has a ecolicopter, a flying walnut shell, and he is able to shrink Tiny Toot and Gato, so they can come with him on adventures everywhere. Only imagination sets the boundaries.
